Monday's SSND Solidarity Summer Webinar:

Featured Dr. Amy Levad, Associate Professor of Christian Ethics at the University of St. Thomas, who described the dozens of incremental steps that took us from the "war on drugs" to a crisis of mass incarceration that disproportionately affects people of color in the United States.

Activity for Personal Integration:

1) If you haven't done so already, please consider taking the implicit bias test. Click here to take the implicit bias test through "Project Implicit."

Afterwards, take a few moments to reflect on the findings, and write down some initial reactions. If you have never taken the test before, consider your first test a baseline. You might return to the test in future years to see if the results have shifted.

2) Learn more about federal and state prison reform efforts. Write your elected representatives and urge their support.

For Personal Reflection:

What surprises, alarms, confuses you about the following statements?

- The politics of fear and anger cause Americans to tolerate things within the criminal justice system that are unjust.
- White supremacy is resilient. It keeps adapting to remain in control.
- 76% of people held by jails have not been convicted of any crime. With an average bail set at $10,000.00, those who have to remain in jail are poor. The poorest are women and people of color.
- 6.1 million Americans are barred from voting because of a felony. In some states the person cannot vote for a lifetime.
