Safety Signs protects road crews and traveling public in construction zones

The next time you drive through a construction zone in Minnesota, take a fresh look at the safety signs and cones. Odds are they belong to Safety Signs, a Lakeville construction company that specializes in traffic control, pavement markings and roadway signing for construction work zone safety.

Safety Signs is family owned and operated, and was founded in 1993. It currently has about 120 employees and business is booming. Everyone works hard and yet makes time to play hard, too, with cookouts, games and more to keep people smiling.

People who work at Safety Signs appreciate the opportunities they have to learn and improve. Here's what one 17-year employee has to say about the company:

"When I started at Safety Signs, I was 20 years old looking for a good paying job with the potential to move up. I started out as a driver, loading trucks, doing pickups and deliveries, and making signs and sandbags," he said. "I have moved up to be a project manager, learned new skills and I'm still doing something that challenges me every day."

SAFER ROADS SAVE LIVES!

Everyone who works at Safety Signs operates by these core beliefs: Safety, teamwork, responsibility and exceptional customer service.

"We invest in ongoing training, team building and talking about the future as these are as important as everything we do here."

"We like to say that our family is protecting your family," said Winn. "We employ the most dedicated and hard-working experts in the industry who are trained, certified and embrace our safety culture."

The company is continually looking for future employees who understand the importance of safety and have the attitude to do whatever it takes to complete the job.

"Our business is perfect for you if you like a fast pace, and enjoy working outside and new challenges every day," said Winn. "We're hiring for full-time and part-time jobs, particularly for traffic control during these summer months."

Everyone who works at Safety Signs understands there's a larger purpose for the work they do.

"To us, safety is more than a reflective vest," said Winn. "As more and more vehicles hit the roadways, it has become vitally important to provide equipment and services that keep workers, pedestrians and vehicles safe."
