CHANGING THE FACE OF AVIATION WORLDWIDE

SERVING THE FLIGHT TRAINING INDUSTRY

Dear Friends and Supply Chain Associates,

FSANA invites you to participate in the 14th Annual International Flight School Operators Conference and trade show in Orlando, Florida. The conference will have multiple education tracks designed to meet the increased challenges that come with the operation of a flight training school.

Our attendees recognize the value that the supply chain brings to the industry. This conference and trade show has become the one-stop supply-chain event for the flight training community.

The training community is eager to meet with the supply chain in an environment designed to maximize brand awareness and customer education. Attendees include:

- Flight school owners
- Flight school managers
- Chief flight instructors
- Flight instructors
- Future school owners
- Flight school investors

The FSANA conference is designed to provide current industry information that helps flight school owners, operators and managers to better manage and shape their business models for enhanced profitability and growth. The supply chain's presence plays a key role in our success.

The flight training industry is busier today than anytime in the past decade. The need for career pilots is growing each day and many flight schools are seeing increased activity.

Please contact us with any questions and we look forward to seeing you in Orlando. Email at info@fsana.com or call 610-791-4359.
