Below is the San Francisco Fire Department's response to that notification:

While we do not have any additional information beyond the California DMV's press release, we appreciate their concern for the public safety of the people of San Francisco. We also appreciate the work of our city partners at SFMTA, SFPD, SF DEM, and SF DPT – as well as the Mayor's Office and Board of Supervisors - in highlighting the concerns of the Fire Department and other first responders that informed today's suspension of Cruise operations. The Fire Department has had productive meetings with Cruise recently and looks forward to continuing this collaboration to improve first responder AV interactions and overall AV safety.
