Ellie Mosko has been exclusively practicing immigration law since graduating from University of Detroit Mercy School of Law. In 2015, Ellie opened Mosko Law PC, an immigration law firm dedicated to providing the highest quality of compassionate and personalized legal advice and counsel to individuals, families and business.

Prior to working as the principal attorney at Mosko Law PC, Ellie worked as the Regional Attorney for Justice for Our Neighbors-Southeastern Michigan, providing free legal immigration services to the Southeastern Michigan immigrant community representing hundreds of clients from all over the world on a wide range of immigration legal issues, and as an of-counsel immigration attorney at the law firm Ellis Porter, PLC. In law school and after graduating, Ellie interned and volunteered at the Archdiocese of Detroit Community Immigration Legal Services.

Ellie is the co-founder and President of the Jewish Bar Association of Michigan (JBAM), a member of the Immigration Law Section of the State Bar of Michigan Board of Directors, and serves on the Client Protection Fund Committee for the State Bar of Michigan. Ellie is also an active member of the American Immigration Lawyers Association (AILA).

Ellie Received her Bachelor of Arts in Social Relations from James Madison College, Michigan State University where she had the privilege of studying abroad in Sydney, Australia and interning with the Human Rights and Equal Opportunity Commision. After graduating from Michigan State, Ellie spent six weeks performing volunteer services in the Northen Volta Region of Ghana.

Ellie is licensed to practice in the State of Michigan, the United States District Court - Eastern District of Michigan, and in the United States Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit. Since immigration law is federal, Ellie can practice immigration law in any state in the country.
