It's important to recognize parents in the process as some of you have heard me say, the teachers have become the "instructors of content" and parents become the classroom managers in the virtual world. Here is the message I sent to students in the WAU- our weekly announcements in video:

I know it isn't easy but you are doing great- keep it up. Make sure as we go into week 2, you don't let the momentum fall- keep your classroom areas set up and clutter free. Keep your phones out of the environment and use lunch as a time to connect with friends. Get to "class on time or early" and don't miss class, if you do, plan on being in your teacher's opportunity day the following day. The online environment is different and that face to face time with teachers and classmates is more important than ever!

Thank you's:

- Parents- we hear you! You have been so supportive and complimentary of our distance learning work- we share this success with each of you!
- Parent feedback- thank you who have taken the time to ask questions and provide feedback. Right now, our biggest feedback has been around the schedule. Please know, we understand that 11-4 is a long session; however since we are working with pre-K through grade 12, schedule adjustments impact everyone. We are taking your feedback into consideration; however we are unable to make schedule changes at this time.
- Student contact- this has been such a wonderful bright spot this week. Your kids have been in touch with staff- this is a life skill that they have embraced- well done!
- A big thank you to our teacher Alejandro Corredor for the professional presentation and the 45+ parents who could join the Google Classroom Parent training in both English and Spanish- we will continue to offer this time weekly. Look for a new date coming next week.

Reminders:

Instructional time- remember, instructional time is different in the virtual world. It isn't meant for students and teachers to meet for the full hour. Teachers will have a set check in and check out time and pull small groups or individuals together during the 60 minute block but will not use the entire time. This will give our students time for independent work and the ability to use the bathroom, get a snack and prepare for their next class and meeting time.

MAP makeups- this was not a priority last week. Our priority was getting students comfortable in the virtual environment. Please know we will be rescheduling MAP when we return and prior to the start of the 2020-2021 School Year. Students will not be penalized for not completing the MAP test. This will not impact student preAP eligibility.

An important reminder from our administrative and counselors for the virtual world, too. Please keep in touch about anyone needing support:
