

"Christmas is the day that holds all time together." Alexander Smith

Our focus remains creating a positive, cohesive environment even when we are in different settings as referenced in the cartoon. We are all in different places in our learning journey- at home, at school or toggling back and forth and fairness has come up a lot during these times. Look for meet ups specific for our students at home to connect and plan on having your child attend optional times with the counselor as additional times to connect socially each week. We want to stay as connected as possible until we break for winter holiday.
