Whether your child is a toddler or a college student, technology is having an impact on their day-to-day life as well as their future outcomes.

As parents, we may not realize that our children are hypersexualized by digital content, how our own adult use of technology changes them, and the causal impact technology has on their mental health.

In addition, our children are immersed in an environment where "adult content" consumption now begins at 8 years old, sexting begins in the 4th grade, and due to a lack of media literacy skills combined with little impulse control - our children are accidentally and actively communicating with online predators.

Jesse Weinberger is a former programmer, a nationally recognized speaker, TEDx Presenter, and the host of Big Mama's House Podcast. Jesse is also the author of The Boogeyman Exists: And He's in Your Child's Back Pocket, 2nd ed.

With over 15 years of speaking experience at school districts all over the United States, Jesse's particular skill is successfully reaching audiences with the perfect combination of humor and deep expertise in technology and digital content.
