

Help Us Name Owlivia's New Friend!

Dear educators,

We're excited to announce a special partnership with Yawnimals! Starting this week, your class is invited to participate in a fun book-naming art Experience where students color their favorite animal dreaming of their favorite activity.

One chosen artwork will inspire the next official Yawnimals Bedtime Story Audiobook! 🌙🎨 You will find a special coloring page below - this will be the official entry form. Simply let your students color it, then snap pictures.

There are 3 ways to enter:

1. Post entries to your social medias - including tagging BOTH ELCPH AND @YawnimalsBooks so your entry is officially counted!
2. Email photos of your artwork to ELCPH at w.reese@elcph.org.
3. Drop your artwork off to the ELCPH office (12107 Majestic Blvd., Hudson FL 34667).

Entry Deadline: March 25, 2026

Yawnimals Book-Naming Experience – FAQ

1. What is the Yawnimals Book-Naming Experience?

It's a fun, early literacy and social media-boosting activity where children help create a new character name for the upcoming Yawnimals Bedtime Story audiobook.

2. Who can participate?

Any child care center serving young children and their parents.

3. How do we submit an entry?

Your school will receive a simple entry form - both online or printable. This will be sent out via email and Seeds of Knowledge. Directions are on the form. The artwork is then posted to social media tagging both ELCPH and Yawnimals, sent via email, or sent directly to ELCPH's Hudson office. Entry deadline: March 25, 2026.

4. Can individual parents submit entries directly?

Yes, parents (and schools) are usually excited to show off their children's creativity and this promotion gives them the opportunity to do that in a safe, fun, and supportive environment.

5. Does it cost anything for the school or organization to participate?

No. Participation is completely free.

6. How much time does it take for staff?

Most schools spend 5 minutes introducing Yawnimals (oftentimes at naptime) to their students. Directors or educators can communicate the entirety of the Experience to their staff in an email we provide. The Experience makes for a simple, printable in-class activity that can be completed in the classroom.

7. How many entries can each class submit?

Classrooms can submit the art of each child in their classrooms as multiple entries.

8. Will children's names or photos be shared publicly?

If a teacher includes students in the picture they post (i.e. A child holding their artwork), then that is voluntary on the part of the teacher, but not required. The only thing required is the artwork.

9. How do you choose finalists?

A Yawnimals representative will choose 3-5 finalists followed by one child's cover idea chosen.

10. When will the new book be published?

Within a month after the Experience ends.

11. What if two schools submit the same name?

That's okay! The artwork will contain 2 other distinguishing variables: an animal and an activity the animal is dreaming about. The combination of possibilities is endless.

12. Do teachers need to get Director permission?

Educators should ensure Director/Owner permission before submitting entries.

13. Can we promote the Book-Naming Experience to families on our organization's social media?

Yes! You're encouraged to share the finalists posts by ELCPH to family & friends.

14. Who do we contact if we have additional questions?

You may email Jonathan: MartinezLearningGroupLLC@gmail.com for questions about Yawnimals, or ELCPH at w.reese@elcph.org
