

Summer Updates

We planned and completed an interview of our neighbors from SCALE Aphasia Program, using supported conversation techniques to get to know people who "know more than they can say," in honor of Aphasia Awareness Month.

We supported an SLP (speech-language pathology) graduate student in her first off-campus placement. She gained clinical hours in cognitive-communication, social-communication, and language treatment. She helped us launch what we hope will be annual cognitive assessments for participants.

We virtually met another MS Day Program from Allentown, Pennsylvania to share stories of diagnosis, medication, and personal strategies. We hope to continue meeting quarterly for conversation and structured activities.

We are learning how to work with our new Case Manager, Michelle, to utilize resources and access available services through insurance coverage or government programs.

We continue our relationship with artist Zoe Lintzeris, who runs an Arts in Health group designed to engage, relax, connect and focus while creating and enjoying art.
