KORACH: DOWNS AND UPS

Korach has been a bad boy, openly rebelling against Moshe (and Hashem). Hashem orders Moshe to clear an area around the family tents of Korach, Datan, & Aviram. Something terrible is about to happen. Moshe makes one last attempt to get Datan & Aviram to repent. But these two rebels are too stubborn. They won't even answer Moshe when he speaks! Suddenly, the Earth splits open and swallows Datan and Aviram, their families, tents and possessions! At the same time, a heavenly fire burns Korach & his 250 followers who stand at the entrance of the Mishkan with their pans of Ketoret. Korach is sucked into the hole, joining Datan & Aviram.

The earth closes but the Bnai Yisrael can hear the victims. In a song, they declare that Hashem is righteous and His judgement is correct, & that Moshe and the Torah are true. They also confess that they are evil for rebelling against Moshe.

The sons of Korach, however, are saved from death because at the last minute they did Teshuvah (repented) and sided with Moshe. They later establish a virtuous family in Eretz Yisrael from who descended the great prophet Samuel. This shows that even if one had evil parents or ancestors he/she can still achieve righteousness.

DID YOU KNOW?

Did you know that Jericho is the oldest continuously inhabited city in the world? Though some scholars dispute this, the archeological evidence backing this claim is strong. Nearly all agree it's the world's oldest walled city. Jericho has certainly been a point of interest in history. Most famously is Joshua's campaign conquering it, and the law against a Jew rebuilding it. (For some interesting and eerie research look up what happened to the Jews who did try to build there.) Alexander the Great made it into one of his private estates, and Herod leased it from Cleopatra, who was given it as a gift from Marc Antony. Today it is inhabited by Palestinians in Judea (aka the West Bank).
