

Eye on Alumni: Madison Mark

Madison believes the real-world experiences like Rising Tide's internship program helped her succeed in college and the world beyond.

A 2017 graduate of Rising Tide, Madison Mark graduated Magna Cum Laude with a B.A. in History from the University of New England in 2021. She is now in a program to complete a double master's degree--one in Library and Information Science and one in History. Her goal is to become an archivist, working with historic manuscripts and artifacts in a museum, university, or government setting.

Madison began at Rising Tide in 2013. As a self-proclaimed theater kid, she recalls that all the plays she and her classmates put on for the Drama Festival and the school were amazing experiences. She also enjoyed many field trips and senior events. In addition to the amazing teachers she had while a student at Rising Tide, Madison said the real-world experiences, like internships and projects that she participated in at Rising Tide, really helped prepare her for college and the world beyond. According to Madison, "Rising Tide teaches skills and methods of research that are above the average level of a lot of schools, especially in writing. This led me to be ahead of the game in many of my classes."
