Is evidence-based practice important to you? Do you want to learn more about applying evidence-based concepts to your research or your institution? Then join us at the 9th Evidence-Based Library & Information Practice Conference (EBLIP9) – a three-day conference dedicated to evidence-based practices.

The biennial EBLIP Conference will be held June 18 – 21, 2017 in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and is your opportunity to discover new ideas and connect with the latest research and expertise around evidence-based library and information practice. The 2017 conference will consist of more than 40 presentations, three inspiring keynote speeches, poster sessions, and numerous networking opportunities.

Registration is open now through May 31, 2017.

As an attendee, you will have access to:

- The full three-day EBLIP Conference Program
- Opening night welcome reception at the Free Library of Philadelphia
- Networking conference dinner at the elegant Crystal Tea Room
- A variety of other networking opportunities with your peers and colleagues
- Food & Refreshments (including daily lunch and session break refreshments)

Be sure to check out the pre-conference workshops too. These sessions require registration and an additional fee. Registration to the main conference is not required to attend a pre-conference workshop.

The complete conference program is available online, and visit www.EBLIP9.org for more information and details about conference sessions, events and other programming.
