Gourmet Patrons Savor Virtual Cookbook & Recipe Swap Club

Sharing a meal provides support, comfort, and the opportunity to express ideas, so in March of this year, Vonda Public Library launched a virtual club to tempt the taste buds of local gourmets. The new Recipe Swap - Cookbook Book Club quickly attracted patrons eager to talk food during a monthly online Zoom meeting.

The club's goal is to help one another try new meals, so at the beginning of each month, Branch Librarian Rebecca Fehr chooses two cookbooks for review by the club. Each member opts for one of the books, then checks out a copy to take home.

In preparation for each meeting, a recipe is chosen, then each member cooks the recipe just prior to meeting time so that members may 'dine' together, evaluate their chosen recipe as they eat, and discuss that month's cookbooks. Participants also bring along favorite, tried-and-true recipes to swap and share with the group.

"Our club members are very discerning when it comes to food," said Fehr, "Our discussions about the cookbooks and recipes we choose are always in-depth. We purposely schedule our meetings for the end of each month so ample time is allowed for review and reflection."
