STRENGTHENING ALABAMA'S WATER WORKFORCE THROUGH ATN TRAINING

The Alabama Training Network (ATN) supports water and wastewater professionals across the state through practical, hands-on training designed to improve operations and build a stronger workforce. Through a partnership with the Alabama Rural Water Association, ATN delivers targeted courses in areas such as wastewater treatment processes, regulatory compliance, and industry certification.

Organizations can also benefit from leadership and technical training to enhance overall performance. Courses in communication, supervision, and motivation help develop stronger leaders, while technical offerings like electrical motor controls support facility reliability and efficiency.

Whether the focus is compliance, operations, leadership, or technical skills, ATN provides flexible training solutions to help organizations strengthen their teams and succeed.
