Taking Your Game to the Next Level

This is a five-week program guided by the data collected from Trackman® doppler radar to monitor three-dimensional clubhead movement and ball flight. The information collected creates the pathway toward individual improvements. Each week, drills and practice sessions are geared toward improving the weakest components of your individual game.

Knowing how far you hit your favorite clubs in your bag is important if your goal is to improve your game and lower your scores. In the final week, each participant will return to the Performance Center and complete a club distance analysis on the Trackman.
