Ed Adams is a Teaching Professional who first joined the Morton Golf coaching team in 2012. Prior to joining the team, Ed spent 10 years as Tournament Director of PGA Tour and LPGA Tour events. There, he had the opportunity to meet and talk frequently with many of the tour players. He brings that wealth of knowledge gained from those experiences about the game and how to play like a professional.

He was responsible for the management of William Land Golf Course and several other programs including: Little Linkers, Swing Club for the Blind, The California Eagles and the Junior Tour.

Ed encourages golfers to focus on the basic fundamentals of golf and proper practice techniques to improve their game and to become more consistent. He focuses his efforts toward helping golfers learn how to maximize the benefits of practice in a minimum about of time.

Dale Edwards

Dale has been a part of the Morton Golf family for many years. He is experienced in teaching many adult programs, with his students having success in all of them. His background is in the auto part industry; however, his passion is helping others have fun while learning how to play golf. Dale did not start to play until he was 30 years, allowing him to clearly understand the discomfort in starting the game later than others.

Dale considers himself a lifetime student of the game, whose top priority is to help others grow, learn and to enjoy each experience of the golf course, regardless of ability.
