

Finding the Good When Good Seems to Not Be Found: Embracing the Changes That Accompany Age.

In cognitive aging, people joke I just study downward sloping lines. And there's some truth in that. This presentation will talk about some of those physiological changes and declines, but will focus more on places where the lines don't slope as much or how a person can alter that decline and how Carstensen's Socioemotional Selectivity Theory of Aging plays out in practice.
