Join Rabbi Shira Joseph for an important discussion on what defines being Jewish.

Are we a religion, a people, ethnicity, nation?

All of the above?

The conversation will include President Trumps executive order to combat anti-Semitism by declaring Jewish people a nation so they can be protected by Title VI of the Civil Rights act of 1964.

"Ultimately, to be Jewish is to be a member of a culture, a religion, and a peoplehood. Jews are unique in that they are one of the few, if only, "people" in the world that encompass both a religious, cultural and national aspect. They are often referred to as Am Yisrael meaning the "People of Israel." To be Jewish is to be many things all at once."
