THE MYTHS AND REALITIES OF COLLEGE RECRUITING

A SEMINAR SPONSORED BY MIDWEST COLLEGIATE PROSPECTS

There is no magic wand involved in the college recruiting process. It requires objectivity, understanding and a proactive approach by both the parents and the student-athlete. First, you must have the recruiting knowledge and information to develop the proper recruiting game plan. Second, you must be diligent in understanding the ever-changing world of college athletics and recruiting guidelines.

This is why Midwest Collegiate Prospects has organized an educational seminar for interested athletic directors, coaches, parents and student-athletes. We feel that you will leave the seminar with a greater understanding of the college recruiting process and what steps you need to take to properly implement a game plan in order to be recruited to play college sports. The sooner that a college coach knows about the student-athlete – the greater the chance to be recruited.

FEATURED SPEAKER: Jonathan F. Larson – President (Midwest Collegiate Prospects)

WHEN: May 9, 2018 TIME: 7:00 – 8:30 P.M.

WHERE: Hartford High School Auditorium

RSVP: alyssacolla3@gmail.com

Midwest Collegiate Prospects recommends that any student-athlete that plans on playing college sports attend this informational seminar, especially freshman and sophomores who are playing at the JV/Varsity Level and juniors and seniors who have not had a lot of contacts from colleges at this point. Remember, there are hundreds of student-athletes every year that wait for the recruiting call that never comes. A student-athlete needs to be in front of as many schools as possible to maximize the opportunity to play college sports.
