

Financial Times and the National Association of Plan Advisors Recognize Centurion Group as a Top DC Retirement Plan Advisor

Plymouth Meeting, PA – January 16, 2019 – Centurion Group, LLC today announces another year of industry awards. Kevin J. Broderick AIF® and James G. Hageney, PRP, AIF®, both Managing Partners, and Gene R. Weber, AIF® have been recognized by the Financial Times (FT) as Top Retirement Advisors and the National Association of Plan Advisors (NAPA) has, as in previous years, recognized Centurion as one of the Top DC Advisor Firms.

This is the second award from the FT for James G. Hageney and the first award for Kevin J. Broderick and Gene R. Weber. The average Financial Times FT 401 advisor is managing $1.3 billion in DC plan assets and has 20 years' experience with DC plans. The average Centurion Group advisor has over 20 years of experience and the firm manages over $16 billion in defined contribution retirement plan assets.

The National Association of Plan Advisors (NAPA) 2018 recognizes firms with an excess of $1 billion in DC assets under advisement. NAPA is an affiliate organization of the American Retirement Association. The organization's core purpose is to enhance retirement security in America. Centurion Group LLC has been recognized as a Top DC Advisory Firm.

“We appreciate this recognition from FT and NAPA of our executives and our company,” said James G. Hageney, Managing Partner, Centurion Group LLC. “The awards highlight our consistency, expertise, commitment and mission to provide better retirement outcomes for plan participants.”
