ST VINCENT DE PAUL THANKS YOU A few months ago, this middle aged woman's fiancé died. They shared rent expenses and now, not only is she grieving, she is struggling to pay all the rent on one income. Formerly unhoused herself, she works helping people experiencing homelessness. She doesn't want to go through that again. Her plan is to share the apartment with a friend who will help with rent. She called the SVdP Helpline (206-767-6449 or apply online https://svdpseattle.org/get-help/online-help-request-form/) for assistance with a portion of her back rent and sends her sincere thanks to St James Parishioners for their help. Information, Blake Steller 907-244-6683 or blsteller@gmail.com.

ST. JAMES IMMIGRANT ASSISTANCE (SJIA) – PROVIDING FAMILY STABILITY When a client, who is a lawful permanent resident, becomes a U.S. citizen through naturalization, their minor children who meet specific requirements automatically become U.S. citizens. SJIA helps these children obtain proof of their citizenship from the U.S. Department of State (via a U.S. passport) and the Department of Homeland Security (via a Certificate of Citizenship). These applications can require extensive evidence to prove that the child has met all of the legal requirements to derive citizenship through their naturalized parent. Each family situation is unique, which means the supporting evidence they must submit varies depending on their circumstances. SJIA helps clients navigate this process and collect the strongest, clearest evidence in support of their applications. Knowing their children have evidence of their U.S. citizenship provides much relief to our clients and stability to the entire family. If you or someone you know is interested in becoming a U.S. citizen, we can help. Information, Patrick Suhrbier psuhrbier@stjames-cathedral.org or Laura Murton lmurton@stjames-cathedral.org, 206-382-4511.

A guide to our new Portico

On Sunday, April 6, Father Ryan blessed our new Portico, made possible by you, parishioners and friends of the Cathedral | Christopher and Misun Gerrick, architects | Robbie Schneider, sculptor Stephen Lee, architect for the hallway and restrooms | Ferguson Construction and Todd Vacura, CEO

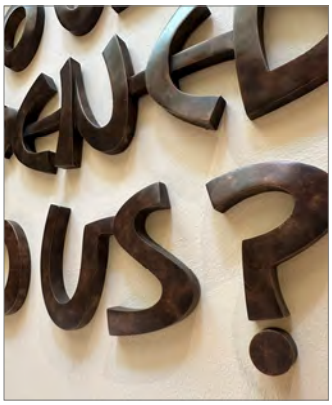

The doors. The original doors and transom window have been removed and new doors in "naval brass" fill the entire frame, while preserving the beautiful pediment and exterior lighting. The radiating lines are the most striking element of the new doors. They suggest not only rays of light streaming down, but also the convergence of many paths leading to this holy place. In addition, the lines echo the stylized scallop shell seen on the Camino to Santiago de Compostela. The door pulls are made of wood, and allude to the walking staff of St. James, the pilgrim.

The light monitor. Whereas a skylight brings light straight down into a space, a light monitor brings it in from the sides. The new light monitor is about six feet square. A sleeve of naval brass drops down into the vestibule. When you walk through and look up, you see a 30-foot high vision in gold and glass. In addition to filling the space with warm light, the light monitor serves as a beacon, marking the entrance as you approach from the outside. At night, the light monitor is illuminated and becomes a striking lantern.

The holy water stoup. A large Carrara marble stoup runs along the right-hand side of the space as you enter. "That connection to baptism really needs to be celebrated," notes Chris Gerrick, architect. "It's how you became part of the faith, and symbolically, you are renewing that every time you enter the Cathedral. It enables this ritual to be a collective, communal experience, with several people blessing themselves at the same time."

The inscription. A noted Scottish sculptor, Robbie Schneider, who specializes in lettering, was commissioned to create the artwork, which anchors the entire space in a wonderful way.

"We have many important inscriptions in the Cathedral," Father Ryan notes. "Over the altar, the Last Supper words of Jesus, I am in your midst as one who serves, have become a kind of parish motto."

For this entrance, Father Ryan chose the story in Luke's Gospel of the two disciples on the road to Emmaus. The text Were not our hearts burning within us as he spoke to us along the way and opened the scriptures to us? speaks to the journey, but it also describes in a wonderfully simple way what happens in the Cathedral whenever we gather for worship. The text also resonates with the call of Pope Francis to become a more synodal Church, journeying together as disciples of Jesus.

Hallway and restrooms. A significant upgrade of the hallway and bathrooms, under the direction of Cathedral architect Stephen Lee, has been completed. The long hallway to the restrooms has new terrazzo tile flooring to echo what is seen in the Cathedral. New lighting and ventilation systems have been installed, and the bathrooms have been thoroughly refurbished and improved. Along the hallway to the restrooms hang images of saints created by Sister Margaret Evenson, SNJM. These images date from the time of the Cathedral's renovation: they hung on the fence that surrounded the Cathedral when it was a construction site in 1994!

READING AND CONVERSATION WITH THE AUTHOR

Wednesday, May 21, 2025
7:00pm | Holy Names Room

Pastoral Outreach Center
907 Columbia Street

Join us for a reading and conversation with Cathedral parishioner Shemaiah Gonzalez on the launch of her new book!

In this collection of short essays, Shemaiah recommends a fresh view on life, through her own experiences and discovery of finding joy in both the mundane and magnificent. In energetic prose, she finds delight in naps, capybaras, and wandering the English countryside - and encourages readers to see the joy present in these moments as well. When we turn our attention to the joy around us, we become attuned to God's constant presence with us and in all these things.

Copies of the book will be available for purchase.

SHEMAIAH GONZALEZ is a writer with degrees in English Literature (BA) , Intercultural Ministry (MAPS) and Creative Non-Fiction Writing (MFA). She thrives in moments where storytelling, art, literature, and faith collide. Her work has appeared in America Magazine, Image Journal's Good Letters, Ekstasis, The Curator, and Loyola Press, among others. A Los Angeles native, she now lives in Seattle with her husband and their two teen sons. Shemaiah and her family have been parishioners at St. James Cathedral for many years.

Celebrating a Legacy of faith

LORD JESUS CHRIST,
you are the beginning and the end, Lord of time and history.
We give you thanks for this local Church,
and for these 175 years of faith and challenge.
Give us the grace we need to respond to the needs of our time with wisdom and compassion.
Make us one in mind and heart,
and show us how to love all people as you love them.
You who live and reign for ever and ever. Amen.
