Williston Economic Development achieves "21 in 2021" Goal

Williston Economic Development has announced it has reached its "21 in 2021" goal. The campaign was launched at the start of 2021 to generate interest in starting, expanding or purchasing a business with help from the Williston STAR Fund.

"We all know what happened last year with COVID," said Williston Economic Development Executive Director, Shawn Wenko. "The economy kind of shut down and it wasn't a fun year for us in economic development. So, when we came out of the gate in 2021, we decided to have a goal of assisting seven new businesses, seven business expansions and seven quality of life projects funded through the Williston STAR Fund in '21."

WED met its 21 in 2021 goal on August 10, 2021, when the Williston City Commission approved several Williston STAR Fund applications that met the 21 in 2021 criteria. The projects included the XWA Air Show (quality of life), COPRO Doors (expansion) and Point Blank Metal Works (expansion).

The Williston STAR Fund is funded by a portion of the one-cent city sales tax. Twenty-five percent of the collections help create jobs and improve the quality of life in Williston. Those funds are managed by a seven-member board of directors. Each month the board submits its STAR Fund recommendations to the city commission and/or city administrator for approval.

Wenko said the STAR Fund helps improve the local economy by putting a portion of the sales tax dollars that are collected back into the community.

"I try to figure out each year our return on investment. For every dollar we put back into the community we see about 12 to 13 dollars come back in the form of private investment or business growth and things like that," Wenko said.

While the STAR Fund has assisted many more businesses than the 21 highlighted in the 21 in 2021 campaign – these businesses have
