Renaissance On Main brings some very good news to downtown Williston. The newest addition to street-level retail is Hops & Berry Taproom, and it's now back up and running and open to the public, under the state's Smart Re-start guidelines.

Hops & Berry is a self-service, pay-by-the-ounce taproom offering 54 craft beer and wine options. Customers simply present a credit card and a driver's license to open up a tab. They receive an RFID bracelet used to activate the beer faucets that pour as little or as much as desired. Very soon, Hops & Berry will also be serving various appetizers and Gourmet Hot Dogs. Locals are sure to enjoy the opportunity for safe social gathering inside this exciting new establishment. They're open Mon-Fri 4pm-12am and weekends 12pm-12am. North Dakota Housing Finance Agency has expanded its definition of an Essential Service Worker to include employees of state, city, county or tribal government, public school districts, ND National Guard, medical facilities, childcare providers, grocers, farming operations or other employer as determined by the agency that provides an essential public service. This opens up availability of these affordable rent rates to a much larger segment of the population. Questions about the expanded ESW definitions can be directed to the Planning and Housing Development Division staff at 701-328-8080.
