University Architect / Director
Planning, Design & Construction

As the University of New Mexico grows and develops we continue to ask, “What Next?”. Working as the University Architect and Director of Planning, Design, and Construction, Amy is leading UNM into the future. By dictating what facilities are appropriate for students, staff, faculty, and the school the landscape of the campus changes not only physically but contextually. Amy is shaping the future of UNM and so she answers, “What Next?”.
