You are Invited to a Special Post-Election Conversation

Join other UCC Pastors to discuss the mid-term election results, how you are feeling post-election, and what the results mean for our churches, communities, and nation.

This conversation between pastors is a safe space to discuss questions such as:

What are the moral implications of the midterm results?

What should our communities hope for?

What faith action should follow?

How have the elections affected your well-being?

This is Christianity, a project of Advocates for Love and Religious Freedom, is a nationwide campaign that reclaims what is at the heart of true Christian faith—love, compassion, and inclusion.

We center love of our neighbors through advocacy for human rights, compassion, justice, and freedom as a counter to the dangerous political ideology of Christian Nationalism.
