Rev. David Fraccaro is the pastor and teacher of Rollo Congregational UCC in Earlville and Community Congregational UCC in Elburn. He is the Executive Director of Lumunos, a 100-year-old nonprofit dedicated to fostering “meaningful conversations and relationships that create purpose in life, belonging in community, and wellbeing in the workplace.”

David brings a rich background to our meeting: he has worked as a stage actor in New York City, coaches and consults, and regularly performs as an Elvis impersonator – complete with blue suede shoes. Prior to accepting the call to serve Rollo, David served as Executive Director of FaithAction International House, a nonprofit organization “serving thousands of immigrants and refugees, while educating and connecting diverse communities across lines of culture and faith – turning strangers into neighbors.”
