Reaching Out and Engaging With You

Submitted by Toniann Leavitt, Program Director

Note: All underlined blue words or phrases are clickable links.

As April arrives, so does the full energy of spring—and across OLLI at UNH, that same sense of renewal and momentum is unmistakable. Classrooms are buzzing, conversations are lively, and our learning community continues to grow, connect and thrive together.

Member Survey – Your Voice Matters

We are incredibly grateful to the more than 200 members who have already completed our OLLI membership survey—thank you for helping shape the future of our program.

The survey is designed to better understand what you value most and how we can continue to grow and improve OLLI at UNH. It's quick—taking just 2–3 minutes to complete—and your input is invaluable.

If you have not yet participated, we would love to hear from you. Please take a moment to complete the survey by April 6 – click here to take the survey. We are excited to share an update later this month highlighting what our membership currently looks like and what you most enjoy about being part of OLLI.

The (603) Challenge

April brings one of the most important opportunities of the year to support OLLI at UNH—the annual (603) Challenge. This year's Challenge runs Tuesday, April 7 through Friday, April 10. Our goal is to reach 100 individual donors, unlocking an additional $1,700 gift from OLLI administration and Leadership Council members and amplifying every donation.

Gifts made during the Challenge support OLLI at UNH's ability to:

- Expand in-person and online course offerings
- Support volunteer-led programs and community events
- Maintain accessible, high-quality lifelong learning opportunities
- Strengthen long-term sustainability

During the Challenge, special match and bonus periods allow your gift to go even further—often doubling or tripling its impact. Whether you give early, help us reach our goal, or join in during the final hours, your support makes a meaningful difference.

Celebrating National Volunteer Week

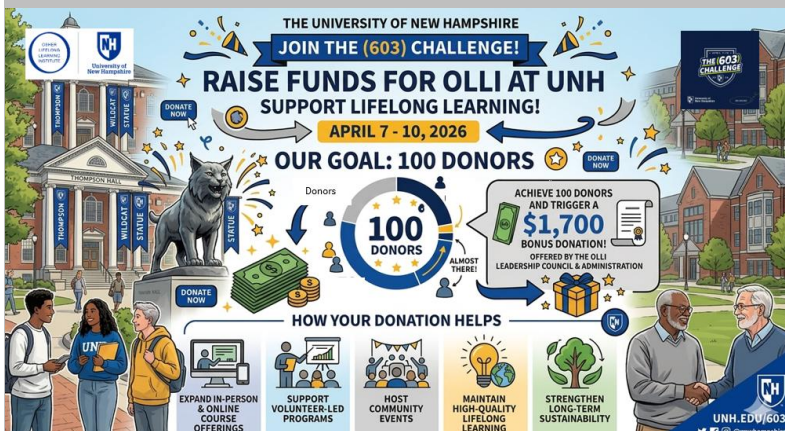

From April 19–25, we join organizations across the country in celebrating National Volunteer Week. At OLLI at UNH, volunteerism is not just something we recognize—it is the very foundation of who we are.

More than 150 volunteers across our four learning regions give their time and talents as presenters, committee members, class assistants, Zoom moderators, SIG leaders, and more. Their dedication brings our courses to life, supports our members, and sustains the welcoming, intellectually curious environment we all value. To each of you who volunteer and make our learning community better every day, thank you. Your impact is felt in every course, every conversation, and every connection made within this community.

April is a time of growth—both in the natural world and within our OLLI community. As we celebrate our volunteers and come together to support the future of lifelong learning at UNH, I invite you to take part in all that this month has to offer.

Together, we are building something truly meaningful.

With gratitude,
Toniann Leavitt
Director, OLLI at UNH

MARCH-ing With OLLI

OLLI exploded out of the winter doldrums with learning experiences covering the whole spectrum of topical categories from steel drums to the Supreme Court, decorating eggs to reading Beowulf, planning for senior care to touring a candy factory.

Celebrating the 250th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence with Dave Alcox covering the history (and handing out chocolate) and a display of historical memorabilia supplied by Neil Valentino.

Above, in Manchester presenter Dennis Sasseville taught members how to "read" and interpret the age, origin and function of old glass bottles and other containers in "Bottleology."

It takes a lot to get Mt. Washington Valley (MWV) members off the slopes and hiking trails while there's still snow on the ground, but an array of fascinating courses brought them into the classrooms as seen below.

At left, presenter John Neely led "Understanding Wildfire," explaining the science behind fire prediction and suppression and the history of wildfires in New England.

Above right, presenter Larry Garland shared his experiences, hiking thousands of miles in over two dozen countries, including every trail in the White Mountains in "Let's Go Hiking."

Icelandic Design Ponchos completed under the tutelage of presenter Cynthia Williams

More MARCH-ing With OLLI

Above, in Portsmouth, Carey Fitzgerald presented "Planning Ahead: Stages of Senior Care" with guidance on home care, assisted living, memory care and nursing homes across NH, ME and MA.

Above, Puzzle Mania, a team jigsaw competition offered mental, emotional, and physical health benefits. Do you think they exercised both brain hemispheres, enhancing cognitive functions like short-term memory and visual-spatial reasoning? Or did they just have fun?

At left, visitors to the Granite State Candy Shoppe's production facility enjoyed a tour with longtime OLLI presenter Jeff Bart. Not only did members get to see products being produced, they got to hear the behind-the-scenes story of "New Hampshire's Most Beloved Chocolate & Candy Maker."

At right, Capital Region sponsored Norman Silber presenting "Understanding the Supreme Court" in Manchester.

Deep Thoughts

In Portsmouth, Malcolm Brown shook the very foundation of members' beliefs in the course "Do We Really Know What We Know?". [Spoiler Alert: No. We don't actually know anything. Not even that.] Filled with fascinating tidbits and great philosophical concepts, this course stirred the brain cells and made every class member's drive home way more interesting than the drive to class.

Above, Carol Robidoux from Manchester Ink Link was the speaker at a Lunch & Learn in Manchester describing her experience developing and running this relatively new local news source.

By the way, do you know what an antinomy is? It's an assertion that can both be proved and refuted by rational means. Example: The statement "This sentence is false" is both true and false, i.e., if it is true then it is false, but if it is false, it has to be true. Mind officially blown.

As I am approaching 80, I kept thinking "I wish that I had known all of this information when I was younger." I would have changed many things about my lifestyle. I would suggest that the course description would mention that taking this course would be extremely helpful for all ages of OLLI members.

THE CHAIRS WERE UNBELIEVABLY COMFORTABLE! This is a first for the OLLI courses I've taken.

Ghosts Among Us – Local Government Involvement in Dark Tourism

A Presentation of the University of New Hampshire
Monday, April 13 – 5:00-6:00 p.m. - Free
UNH Manchester, 88 Commercial Street, Manchester

When tragedy strikes, a community's pain can quickly become its unwanted spotlight. Tragedy draws attention—and visitors. From Salem's witch-trial history to Boston Marathon bombing sites, "dark tourism" leaves communities navigating healing and tourism at the same time.

Join Dr. Beth Wiede Heidelberg, professor of urban and regional studies at Minnesota State University, Mankato, as she examines how local governments confront the surge of "dark tourism"—in their budgets, long-range plans, and policies—as they struggle to protect their communities while managing the spotlight they never asked for.

This presentation is a part of the Saul O Sidore Memorial Lecture Series, which has been fostering critical conversations on pressing societal issues since 1965.

Fresh Reads - Seacoast

Submitted by John Russell

April's Fresh Reads selection is Elderhood: Redefining Aging, Transforming Medicine, Reimagining Life by Louise Aronson. If "old age" begins between 60 and 70, most people today will spend more years in elderhood than in childhood, and many for 40 years or more. Yet at the very moment that humans are living longer than ever before, we've made old age into a disease, a condition to be dreaded, denigrated, neglected, and denied.

Noted Harvard-trained geriatrician Louise Aronson uses stories from her quarter century of caring for patients, and draws from history, science, literature, popular culture and her own life to weave a vision of old age that's neither nightmare nor utopian fantasy—a vision full of joy, wonder, frustration, outrage and hope about aging, medicine and humanity itself. Elderhood is for anyone who is "an aging, i.e., still-breathing human being."

Please join us on Monday, April 20 at 1:30 p.m. via Zoom to discuss this fascinating book. Contact John Russell at russelljohnt@comcast.net to receive an invitation.

Chair's Chat

Submitted by Su Bennett, Chair, Leadership Council

"To leave the world better than you found it, sometimes you have to pick up other people's trash."

— Bill Nye, The Science Guy

Many of us remember the first Earth Day on April 22, 1970. As described in Britannica.com, "In the late 1960s there was an increased awareness of environmental concerns among Americans, and the prominent environmentalist and U.S. Senator, Gaylord Nelson sought to galvanize the conservation movement through the creation of a national celebration. To this end, Nelson, whose efforts in Congress included the passing of legislation that protected the Appalachian Trail and the banning of the use of the pesticide DDT, hired Denis Hayes, a graduate student at Harvard University. They sought to infuse the energy of student-led anti-war activism with the public's emerging environmental consciousness in order to propel environmental protections into the national political agenda. Together they organized the first Earth Day, which took place on April 22, 1970, and was designed as an "environmental teach-in" that would educate participants in the importance of environmental conservation."

Although Curriculum Committees didn't target Earth Day as a theme for OLLI at UNH, the interest of OLLI members is evident in the number and variety of courses that focus on some aspect of the environment:

- 🌍 Let's Go Hiking
- 🌍 Climate Meets Weather: Understanding Our Changing World
- 🌍 Understanding Wildfire: Factors, Risk & History in New Hampshire
- 🌍 Introduction to Honeybees
- 🌍 Unlocking the Potential of a Quarter-Acre with Permaculture Gardening
- 🌍 Water: What It Takes to Make it Clean & Available
- 🌍 Why is Hot Weather Worrisome?
- 🌍 Great Bay National Wildlife Refuge Walk
- 🌍 Kayaking the Contoocook

I hope you celebrate Earth Day by enjoying the outdoors, taking a class or two, and "picking up someone else's trash"!

And the monthly joke:

What tastes better than it smells? A tongue.

Leadership Council meetings are generally held on the Zoom platform on the fourth Monday of the month from 10:00 a.m. to noon, giving members the opportunity to observe our governance structure firsthand.

The next meeting will be Monday, April 27. All members are welcome.

Contact John Russell, at russelljohnnt@comcast.net for information or a Zoom link.

YOU Have the Power

You can improve the quality of your own member experience!

Expectations are powerful things. How well your expectations are met makes you happy or angry. So, managing your expectations and helping to make them easier to meet could make you happier.

Read – actually READ – the communication from your Class Assistant or Zoom Moderator. Yes, it's a form letter – but one which contains information you need.

Get prepared for your class in plenty of time.

- Double check the location and parking information.
- Check for your Zoom link AT LEAST an hour before class start time and call the office at that time if you can't find it.
- Be sure you are going to the section of the course in which you are actually enrolled. Though we won't turn you away if you come to the wrong section, overcrowding can be a problem.
