

Carolyn has been a part-time accounting instructor at Santa Barbara City College for 20+ years. She specializes in small business accounting & cleanup, startups, and specifically, QuickBooks. After graduating from the University of California, Santa Barbara, Carolyn began her professional career working for start-up companies. After working for several start-up companies, Carolyn became an independent contractor specializing in small business accounting. This eventually drew Carolyn into teaching because she saw the need for a broader understanding of accounting.
