

Deborah Deras is a distinguished corporate trainer, international speaker, and published author, currently pursuing a doctoral degree in Organizational Leadership at the University of San Diego. With expertise in peak performance, her work focuses on time management, stress management, workplace efficiency, and leveraging artificial intelligence for business optimization. Residing in Marina del Rey, California, she is also developing a comprehensive AI certificate program to enhance professional efficiency. Deborah's holistic approach integrates cutting-edge strategies with practical applications, positioning her as a thought leader in organizational development and innovation.