Emily hits her alarm clock because it is time to get ready for school. Emily gets out of her bed very slowly because she doesn't want to go to school and do her social studies test. But, Emily has to go to school. So, Emily gets dressed in a striped dress. Then she goes downstairs to eat bagels and cream cheese with a glass of milk for breakfast. Next, Emily went to brush her hair with a blue hairbrush. When Emily was done brushing her hair she went to get her pink sneakers. Then she went to get her sparkle book bag and finally, Emily went to the bus to school.

Ding, the bell rang it's time to go into class. When Emily went into class everybody was working on their social studies test. Emily did not want to work on her writing paper because she was afraid to get an answer wrong. She was shaking and twirling her hair.

Emily went to see her friend Lilah for help. "Lilah, I need your help. I don't know what to do because I am afraid if I get an answer wrong," Emily said.

"It's ok, Emily, you can ask the teacher," said Lilah. But Emily was still afraid to tell the teacher. "But it is ok to tell the teacher," said Lilah.

Emily started to feel brave but a little worried to tell the teacher. But Emily Remembered that Liah said it's ok to tell the teacher.

So, Emily goes to the teacher and says, "I am afraid to do my social studies test."

The teacher says, "It's ok to be to be afraid to do the test. But don't worry because you studied it and know the answers for the test."

Then Emily went to her desk, sat down, got her pencil, eraser, a piece of paper, and got her test. Finally, Emily did her social studies test.

The next week Emily got her test back and she looked at it. She got one hundred percent correct! “I am so thrilled because I got one hundred on my test. I can’t wait to show my family and friends!”
