Donor Spotlight

December 2016

Gordon Reiter, a retired pharmacist and resident of the Village of Oak Creek, has been the world over, having worked across the Southwest and Alaska as an employee of the U.S. Public Health Services, as well as having traveled in Europe, Africa, and Nepal. He settled here 13 years ago and loves the great hikes, including one of his favorite summits, Bell Rock.

But hiking isn't the only thing that Gordon loves about Sedona. "It is very important to have a library in a community, especially with great programs for kids," Gordon says. For him, giving to Sedona Public Library comes naturally. He explains, "I am so glad to help with anything that makes the community better." According to Gordon, Sedona Public Library, in West Sedona, and at Bell Rock Plaza, does exactly that.
