

Managing Implicit Bias and Maternal Health

The Ohio Department of Health's Pregnancy Associated Mortality Review Program have secured an exciting opportunity for health professionals to participate in live, virtual training, Managing Implicit Bias and Maternal Health.

Differences in the incidence and prevalence of health conditions and health status between groups are commonly referred to as health disparities. Unconscious beliefs can impact the work we conduct and contribute to these health disparities. Educating healthcare and public health professionals about implicit bias can support us in taking action to ensure equitable development and implementation of policies and programs that impact the women, children and families we serve.

Participants can expect to

- (1) define and understand implicit bias
- (2) recognize sources of implicit bias
- (3) identify bias at work in maternal health services, and
- (4) practice culturally intelligent strategies to disrupt bias.

In determining what individuals may need to enhance their culturally intelligent strategies, participants will take the Cultural Intelligence (CQ®) assessment before and after the training. Results of the assessment are confidential and only for personal use of participants and aggregate analysis.

Training will be conducted live, online via the Adobe Connect platform in two required sessions. Sessions may be delivered on the same day or on adjacent days as noted in the training dates.

3.5 nursing contact hours are available from the Ohio Department of Health for this activity.

The training is free of charge to participants. Registration is first-come, first serve. See registration information below.
