PROPANE SAFETY PROGRAM
EVERY DAY SAFE

Strengthening Safety, One Day at a Time

The Every Day Safe program presents a simple, step-by-step framework propane companies can adapt as needed to support meaningful improvements in their safety policies, procedures, and daily practices.

By combining trusted resources with easy-to-use tools, company leaders will develop a customized plan that keeps teams focused, engaged, and committed to safety every single day.

By strengthening daily safety habits, companies help protect their employees and the customers they serve, reinforcing a safer, stronger industry overall.

Safety Is Everyone's Responsibility — and Our Greatest Strength

A strong safety culture isn't built in a day; it's built in the everyday. It's built through consistent habits, open communication, and a shared commitment to improvement.

When safety becomes part of your company's identity, the payoff shows up everywhere:

- Improved productivity and morale — employees who feel safe perform their best.
- Reduced costs and risk — fewer accidents mean fewer claims, disruptions, and downtime.
- Stronger reputation and trust — customers, AHJs, and partners see your commitment.
- Greater resilience — a strong safety culture helps businesses recover faster after incidents.

Moving beyond compliance allows teams to feel confident speaking up, to look out for one another, and make safe choices every day.

Simple Steps to Build Safer Habits Every Day

The Every Day Safe program outlines a clear path for propane companies of all sizes. Leaders will assess current practices, set goals, and strengthen their safety culture through practical, adaptable steps.

STEP 1

Complete the Self-Assessment

Leaders begin by completing a brief self-assessment to evaluate current safety practices, policies, and company culture. The results will provide valuable insight to guide subsequent steps and establish a clear direction for improvement.

This survey is for internal use only; PERC does not collect this information.

STEP 2

Watch the Culture of Safety Orientation Video

Company leaders and their teams watch a short introduction video that reinforces the importance of a strong safety culture, defines everyone's role in building it, and features propane marketers sharing real-world experiences.

STEP 3

Map Your Safety Journey with Clear Goals and Milestones

Leaders use the Safety Journey Mapping tool to identify their company's starting point, clarify priorities, and outline a clear path toward continuous improvement. This process helps shape meaningful, measurable goals and milestones that track progress over time.

STEP 4

Put Your Plan into Action

Leaders select focus areas based on their goals and use tailored toolkits to put their plans into action — at a pace suited to their operations. This includes assigning training, sharing resources, and integrating safety into every meeting, task, and interaction.

STEP 5

Complete Periodic Check-Ins

At six months, one year, and three years, leaders complete a brief check-in to reflect on their company's progress and identify any shifts in safety practices, training, and culture. These reflections are for internal use only; PERC does not collect this information.

At the one-year mark, leaders can choose to submit testimonials or completed action steps to earn the next Every Day Safe participant badge — a meaningful way to recognize team commitment and celebrate progress.

To support these goals, leaders may opt to complete any three of the following action steps to earn additional Every Day Safe participant recognition:

- Invite a local fire department to visit your facility.
- Host or participate in emergency response training with first responders.
- Hold regular safety meetings for employees.
- Present Every Day Safe materials at state association meetings.
- Share consumer safety social posts.
- Celebrate National Truck Driver Appreciation Week.
- Recognize and reward employees for safe behavior.

Every Day Safe turns safety awareness into safety action. Through reflection, planning, and consistent habits, companies build a sustainable culture of safety — one day, one goal, one habit at a time.
