INSPIRED Lab Inaugural Prevention Science Summit

Youth Behavioral Health: Strengthening Protective Factors, Strengthening Futures

Monday, May 11 | Noon to 2 p.m. EST
Virtual Webinar | Register Here: go.unc.edu/2026-ssw-pss
2 FREE CE Hours for attendees

This virtual event brings together respected leaders from research, practice, policy and the public sector to discuss the future of prevention science and the opportunities ahead for strengthening prevention efforts nationwide, with a primary focus on youth behavioral health. This year's theme "Strengthening Protective Factors, Strengthening Futures" will center prevention on what works: connection, belonging, supportive adults, healthy youth development and community-driven strategies that help youth thrive.

Featuring:

Trenette Clark Goings
Distinguished Professor, UNC-Chapel Hill
INSPIRED Lab Director

Melissa Villodas
Assistant Professor,
George Mason University

James C. Anthony
Professor,
Michigan State University

Kelly Crosbie
Assistant Secretary, Division of Mental Health, Developmental Disabilities and Substance Use Services (NCDHHS)

Zack Hawkins
N.C. House Representative,
District 31

Amiyah Witherspoon
MPH Student, UNC-Chapel Hill
INSPIRED Lab Youth Advisory Council Member

Register online

INSPIRED

School of Social Work