The Dawson County leadership program started in 1992 and has graduated 200+ leaders since its inception. The curriculum is specific to Dawson County and is based on the Fanning Leadership Program offered by the University of Georgia. Leadership Dawson benefits not just the participants but also our County as a whole as we arm participants with the knowledge and resources they need to actively improve our County. Participants are responsible for a $450 tuition fee. The remainder of the funding comes from the generosity and support of sponsors.

Participants are nominated based on their current Leadership positions or their expressed desire to become more active within our community. Typical Leadership classes are made up of elected officials, City or County government employees, owners or managers of local and national companies, and active volunteers within the community. The program coincides with the public school year and begins with an overnight retreat. Participants bond with classmates and form relationships that will benefit them long after the program has completed. Subsequent program days are held monthly, ending with a graduation celebration in May. During the program, participants are engaged in exercises that allow them to gain better knowledge of our community, as well as, help them to better develop their individual leadership skills. The program finishes with a Class Project and a Graduation ceremony.

The program is an investment in our community's future leaders. Over the course of the nine-month program, students participate in team building and hands-on exercises outside of the classroom. It is an excellent opportunity for participants to network with community business leaders and learn more about the large variety of industries Dawson County offers. The program aims to give students career knowledge and inspire excitement about returning and contributing to the community after college. Students also gain a sense of civic responsibility by participating in a class service project.

To be eligible to participate, students must be a rising sophomore or junior, have an exemplary academic record as well as demonstrate leadership character traits. Applicants are nominated by their teachers and then selected to interview in front of a selection committee that consists of business and community leaders and educators. Applicants are notified of their acceptance in May and classes kick off in September.
