BALANCE OF POWER

Democrats are projected to expand their supermajorities in both chambers of the State Legislature.

A NOTE ON THESE PROJECTIONS

Votes are still being counted in several extremely close races. Our projections reflect current estimates based on vote counts to date, projected and historical turnout, and ballots yet to be processed. We are taking a conservative approach and continuing to review trends.

Democrat | Possible Democratic pickup | Republican | Two-thirds supermajority

STATE SENATE

D 32 R 8

CURRENT PROJECTED MAKEUP · 40 SEATS

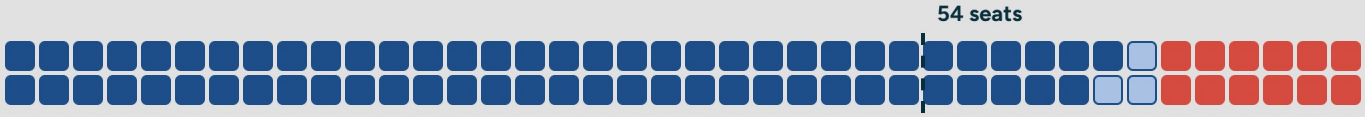

WHAT CHANGED

- Before the election: D 29, R 10, plus one vacancy in a safe Democratic seat.
- Projected: D 32, R 8. Although only half of Senate seats were up for election, Democrats are still likely to expand their supermajority.
- Races to watch – SD-36 and SD-40: Democratic candidates hold narrow leads in both districts.

STATE ASSEMBLY

D 65–68 R 12–15

CURRENT PROJECTED MAKEUP · 80 SEATS

WHAT CHANGED

- Before the election: D 60, R 19, plus one vacancy in a Republican seat.
- Projected: D 65–68, R 12–15. Assembly Democrats are positioned to significantly expand their supermajority.
- Leading in Republican-held seats: Democrats lead in four seats previously held by Republicans: AD-07, AD-36, AD-47 and AD-58.
- Possible additional pickups: If returns continue to track current benchmarks, Democrats may take the lead in AD-70, AD-72 and AD-74.
