

Better together

By: Elizabeth Blydenburgh

I spy with my little eye, something yellow outside, it's the sun and it gives us warmth and light. I Spy with my little eye, something blue outside, it's the water, and it makes things grow and thrive. But when I put them together, I make the world even better. Now I spy with my little eye something green outside. I also see people coming together to celebrate our green world!
