

To disperse the production of our land to the needy

We have enough for ourselves,
and some left.

Which are for yourselves
and we still have some left.

Which are for others still.

Take the produce,
cook it and let the smell waft,
and share.

