- Your indexers are transformed into Data Validators. Your software's intelligence will have improved to the point that it can read the document, pick out the important information and suggest it to your staff to be added to the index, eliminating many chances for human error and improving data integrity.
- Your software's intelligence doesn't have any limits on document types or index fields. Everything you record and index will benefit from this technology.
- Your software alerts the user to index important information that is missing or not identified on the document. This software truly thinks "outside-the-box". Or should we say "outside-the document"?
- Your software knows how YOU indexed documents. It follows your standards, index formats and legal descriptions.
- A keyboard and mouse are no longer the preferred and most efficient input method. We are all using touchscreens and interactive technology more and more. There's a reason, it is incredibly intuitive.
- Your employees will be more excited to come to work and love their job even more. Technology has always provided a way to make peoples' jobs easier and more gratifying. There's no reason why land records software can't do the same.
