

2019 PINWHEELS FOR PREVENTION

April is National Child Abuse Prevention Month. This month and throughout the year The Child Abuse Prevention Council (CAPC) is dedicated to preventing child abuse, ensuring safety, education and treatment for abused/neglected children as well as abusive and at risk parents. In the more than 30 years since its formation, CAPC has collaborated with other local agencies and organizations to meet the needs of children and families who are at risk of abuse and neglect.

Our call to action during the month of April is Pinwheels for Prevention – a nationwide campaign that the CAPC is implementing locally in partnership with the Human Services Agency. This campaign is designed by Prevent Child Abuse America and aims to bring awareness to child abuse and safety.

With this campaign, the focus is on community activities and public policies that prioritize prevention right from the start to make sure child abuse and neglect never occur.

CYBER SAFETY

This year conversations were around cyber safety. We understand that extremely young children have access to internet based games, apps, and sites. While we cannot change the frequency or restrictions of the usage of internet for these children, we CAN teach them how to be safe.

96% of kids use social networking sites such as Facebook, Instagram, and snapchat which emphasizes the importance of Internet safety. Breaking it down by age lends us these figures:

Four in five 5-7 year olds (82%)

Nearly all 8-11 year olds (96%)

Almost all 12-15 year olds (99%).

Not only is the simple use of the Internet and social networking sites increasing, the average time spent online for children is increasing as well, with the older groups spending about just as much time online as all of the younger groups combined. Spending more time online allows children to become more vulnerable to sexual predators, sexual offenses, and cyberbullying. Consequently, this leaves less time for outside physical activity with friends, joining a sports team, and spending time with family.

These teachings have been welcomed in schools throughout our county and our teams have left with the praise of the administration.

We want to thank every school that participated this year, as well as those who have already pre-registered their schools next year. We cannot wait to share this valuable information with your students!

FEEDBACK FROM 2018 CAMPAIGN

"So glad you are opening the lines of communication for our students. It is important for them to feel comfortable to share their experiences with safe adults" - 5th grade teacher

"Our students are spending a lot of time using social media, this is a much needed discussion." - Counselor
