Astrology Weekly Headlines for Week of April 17, 2026

Conservative
Investigate
Brovado

Friday 17th, New Moon in Aries at 4:53 am and then Taurus Moon arrives around 9 am Pacific Time. Moon conjunct Chiron/Eris/Sun, sextile North Node, and square Pluto. Feelings run extremely deep. Past experiences might replay in your memories. Try to use things that have happened to you in the most positive way. What groups can you support who aim to heal the very wounds you have suffered? Try to be soft and kind as you mingle with people. Interpersonal relationships could be a struggle from now though the 23rd. Venus semi-square Saturn can be hard on friendships and finances. Play conservatively.

Saturday 18th, Taurus Moon sextiles Jupiter, and conjunct Venus. Mood lightens up a bit from Friday as the Moon reactivates the sweet Venus/Jupiter aspect from a few days ago. Mercury sextile Pluto is a great time to investigate something. Digging deep can reap rewards. Mars conjunct Saturn. Picture two rams sizing each other up before squaring off. This conjunction occurs every two years. Margaret Mead and Liza Minnelli have this ability to dance to the dark side in their charts.

Sunday 19th, Gemini Moon conjunct Uranus, sextile Neptune/Mercury/Saturn/Mars/Mercury, and square the Nodes, and trine Pluto. This fires up the lineup of planets in Aries. Let's pray for peace in our world. This could have countries shooting first and asking questions later. Sun semi-sextile Uranus so things could occur that don't make sense. On the Moon's other side Saturn/Mars/Mercury semi-sextiles North Node. Today it may feel like world leaders are blindfolded and playing "pin-the-tail-on-the-donkey". Sun hunkers down in Taurus. Stubbornness can play out over this next month, but he gets a lot of work done here.

Monday 20th, Gemini Moon semi-square Chiron/Eris/Sun and sesqui-quadrate Pluto. Gossiping is in full bloom. Try not to feed into this. It will be partly due to the strain many people are currently experiencing. Mercury conjunct Saturn/Mars. This rare triple conjunction with a flavor of Neptune (nearby) thrown in can lead to explosions in the news. Definitely a full news day. Personally, I'm staying home, but if you do venture out, try to not push your accelerator down to the floor as you are dashing around. All planets are currently traveling forward which increases this full-speed-ahead feeling. Stop and breathe as you center yourself every chance you get.

Tuesday 21st, Cancer Moon arrives at 10:01 am Pacific Time. Moon sextile Chiron/Eris/Sun, and square Neptune/Saturn, and trine North Node. A few areas which were problematic over this past week begin to find solutions. Follow up with beneficial leads because luck is not set up to fall in your lap under these skies. Venus is semi-sextile Chiron—sometimes we just don't feel right in our skin and there is no rhyme or reason. Luckily this sensation is fleeting.

Wednesday 22nd, Happy Earth Day! Cancer Moon square Mars/Mercury, and conjunct Jupiter. Emotions rule, but also can shed light upon current events. Check in to how you are doing. Stop and smell the roses. Pay attention to what offers are opening for you. Sun semi-sextile Neptune—increasing your creativity. Notice things and people what/who would usually be on the parameter of your awareness.

Thursday 23rd, Leo Moon arrives at 12:42 pm Pacific Time. Moon squares Chiron/Eris, sextiles Venus/Uranus, trine Neptune, square Sun, and opposite Pluto. Bravado reaches to the highest heights. You probably won't sway anyone with quiet talk. Some days are just made for sitting back and watching "the show". Venus conjunct Uranus can be wild and fun. This yearly aspect throws convention up in the air. People watching is our number one sport when these two connect. Venus slides into Gemini around 9 pm Pacific Time. Her mood shifts. She enjoys time out with friends and attending music events here.

My heartfelt blessings to all my readers.
