

40 Under Forty includes AHNA's own

It's always nice to see people you know and have worked with receive recognition for their efforts, especially when that recognition is regional. So when the Hartford Business Journal came out with their list of the "40 Under Forty" as they have for the last 19 years, it was especially gratifying to see David Ambrose, Asylum Hill resident, AHNA member, and until recently a board member and vice-chair among those honored.

For those of us who have worked with David, it's no surprise that he has been so recognized. Even the list of reasons for his recognition neglects to mention the months he spent as the campaign manager for Joel Cruz's mayoral run in 2015. David has been a dedicated, energetic example to all of his fellow board members, and we are proud to see this member of the AHNA family recognized.

While David is the first AHNA board member to be so recognized, he's not the first of the AHNA Family. Julianne Avalon was recognized last year, and while she wasn't a board member, her years spent at NINA certainly qualified her as an AHNA family member. For those new to AHNA that may seem like the end of the story, but in fact this year's list includes two former AHNA board members. Charles Botts was also a board member eight years ago when he was the Community Development Consultant for AARP. It was great to see him so recognized and to see how far he's come since those days.

For the article on David go to

<http://www.hartfordbusiness.com/article/20160725/PRINTEDITION/307219944>

You can catch up with Julianne at <https://www.linkedin.com/in/julianne-avallone-4645b16> And Charles at

<http://www.hartfordbusiness.com/article/20160725/PRINTEDITION/307219941>

