

Asylum Hill Then & Now

CT Historical Society Connecticut Images Collection

This photo from the CHS collection was taken by Mrs. Walter Clark, and given by her to Ada Louise and Mary Curtin Taylor on January 12th 1941. The house at 83 Woodland St was on the Northwest corner at Asylum and built by Major James Goodwin, lived in by his son James L. Goodwin and later by James widow Sarah Lippincott Goodwin. It was torn down in 1940, and is the current site of Classical Magnet School.
