

AH Then & Now – 991 Asylum

photo from the Connecticut Historical Society Collection by permission

The photo above is from Connecticut Historical Society Collection. The inscription on the back says it was the home of George Stone and was taken in 1925. It also appears on the Sanborn maps of 1900 and 1920. The Geer Directory shows 991 as the address of George until 1935 and Mary until 1938. In the 1939 edition 991 is listed as vacant. About 20 years later the Office building known as 999 Asylum, shown below was built. In those 20 years, America and Hartford experienced the 2nd World War and it's Aftermath. These photos seem to illustrate as well as anything what was lost and what was gained.
