

Earlier this evening, the Trump administration issued a proclamation expanding immigration restrictions in a broad attempt to further its xenophobic agenda while distracting Americans from its failure to adequately respond to the coronavirus pandemic.

This proclamation builds on a number of anti-immigrant policies put forward by the administration in the last several years by closing off almost all legal pathways to immigration.

CAIR-CA and Advancing Justice-Asian Law Caucus attorneys teamed up to draft an advisory that covers information about the administration's latest ban on nearly all immigration to the United States.

Timing

The ban on entry to the United States with immigrant visas is effective at 11:59 p.m. Eastern Daylight Time on April 23, 2020. The ban is to last for 60 days (until June 22, 2020), after which it may be extended.

Who Is Impacted Under the Ban?

Any foreign national seeking to obtain an immigrant visa to enter the U.S. who:

- Is outside the United States at 11:59 p.m. on April 23, 2020; and
- Does not have a valid immigrant visa in their passport as of 11:59 p.m. on April 23, 2020; and
- Does not have another valid official travel document, such as a transportation letter, a boarding foil, or an advance parole document.

This means that nearly all parents and adult children of U.S. citizens, spouses and children of green card holders, and applicants for most employment based immigrant visas will not be able to obtain immigrant visas to enter the U.S. for the duration of this ban.

The Ban Does Not Apply To:

1. U.S. Citizens
2. U.S. Lawful Permanent Residents (Green Card Holders)
3. Individuals entering the U.S. on non-immigrant visas
4. Individuals who are present in the U.S. and applying for adjustment of status
5. Individuals entering on immigrant visas as medical professionals
6. Those seeking entry to the U.S. to do COVID-related work, and their spouses and unmarried children under 21 years old
7. Individuals seeking to enter on the EB-5 Immigrant Investors Program
8. Spouses and children under 21 years old of U.S. Citizens
9. Individuals "whose entry would further important United States law enforcement objectives"
10. Members of the U.S. Armed Forces and their spouses and children
11. Nationals of Afghanistan and Iraq who are entering the U.S. on Special Immigrant Visas for having served as interpreters for the U.S. Armed Forces, and their spouses and children

12. Those seeking asylum, refugee status, withholding of removal, or protection under the Convention Against Torture (CAT)
13. Anyone whose entry is deemed to be in the “national interest”
