

Why Now? The Closing Gateway to Jerusalem

The landscape of burial in Jerusalem is fundamentally changing. Recent legislation has been enacted to strictly limit the availability of graves for those residing outside of Israel to a mere 20% of all available plots. As a result, purchasing burial space as a foreigner is rapidly becoming scarce. By securing a section now, your institution ensures that its members are not locked out of Jerusalem as public availability diminishes.

What You Gain: The Final Expansions on Sacred Soil

The Sha'ar sites remain your gateway to the final major lands available for development within Jerusalem's most historic landscapes. All graves are Mehadrin and under the Halachic oversight of HaRav Asher Weiss Shlita:

SHA'AR HAZEITIM:

The last major land available for development on Har HaZeitim, it features magnificently designed Jerusalem-stone terraces, an extensive network of walkways that reach every kever, private parking, and a spacious Beit Hespel.

SHA'AR HAMENUCHOT:

The final open-air expansion of Jerusalem's most sought-after cemetery. It combines the holiness of Har HaMenuchot with an extensive network of broad, wheelchair-accessible pathways, peaceful plazas, and grand elevators to bring comfort in its highest form.
