Read about the talent below.

Foggy Hollow Bluegrass: Foggy Hollow brings a unique blend of musicians from several genres. The band members all hail from and live in the foothill area of the Appalachian Mountains. Not only do they have a love for the traditional tunes but have put together a vast blend of musical backgrounds. Check out a video here.

Kristy Cox & Grasstime: Kristy Cox and her band Grasstime bring an exciting blend of high-energy, hard-driving bluegrass music and tight, soulful harmonies. The group's combination of top-tier musicianship and traditional bluegrass influences creates performances that are both powerful and fun. Kristy Cox, with her standout vocals and guitar work, leads this ensemble, supported by an all-star cast of instrumentalists. Robbie Morris provides guitar and vocal support, while Cody Tinnin's upright bass and Allan Sanders' banjo add rich textures. Jason Bailey's mandolin and Ellie Hakanson's fiddle and vocals complete the group's unique sound, delivering dynamic and colorful bluegrass music.

With her Australian roots and growing recognition in the U.S., Kristy Cox continues to elevate her songwriting and performance style, fueled by her collaboration with Grasstime. Together, they bring vibrant bluegrass performances that connect tradition with Cox's evolving songwriting. This new chapter in her career signals a bright future, blending deep musicianship with passionate deliver
