Audience

This is a multi-disciplinary workshop. School districts are encouraged to send school health teams (i.e., nurses, counselors, athletic trainers, psychologists) to this program.

Offered by

The workshop will be offered by the Racial Equity Institute (REI) out of Greensboro, NC, in collaboration with the School Health Institute for Education and Leadership Development (SHIELD) and the Massachusetts Department of Public Health School Health Services.

Overview

The goal of this workshop is to establish a foundational understanding of how race-based structural inequities impact school health access and outcomes. This foundation will provide school nurses and others with a basic understanding of how racism is structural in nature and what that means for their work, their schools, and the communities they serve.

Objectives

- Demonstrate how structural racism manifests itself in communities and schools
- Connect communities and schools to the larger reality of racial inequity in the U.S.
- Through self-reflection, understand how explicit and implicit racism affects school health practice and brainstorm steps leaders can take to create safe and inclusive spaces within their offices and schools

Accreditation

Continuing Nursing Education Provider Unit, Boston University School of Medicine is accredited as a provider of continuing nursing education by the American Nurses Credentialing Center's Commission on Accreditation.
