Teacher: Claire Corriveau

In her own words: I have been playing music professionally for close to a decade, both as a solo singer/songwriter and a member of bands. I started teaching private music lessons after graduating Columbia College in 2012 and found a lot of joy working with young children. Each student brings different energy and challenges, so every lesson is a surprise. I love how teaching expands what music can be, allowing for more freedom and independence for each child.
